Franya Ronen to Fenya
Kiev, June 6, 1914

Good Day, Dear Fenichka!

At last we got what we've been waiting for so long! Thank you. It's better late than never.

My dear Fenichka, it's been a long time since we had a letter from you. Mother is worried about you. Please write your letters more often, do not distress her.

In my life, nothing has changed, though I'd like to (do not blame me). You know, I learned how to sew and now I sew a little. If you want to know I'll tell you what specifically: skirts, underwear, dresses, shirts, everything that is needed. Sometimes it happens hash (??make a mistake?), but that can happen to anybody.

I am thinking about working for your former mistress (boss), Genya. What would you suggest?

Fenichka, write us about your health. In the picture you look very good. Everybody finds that you look great and haven't changed at all. But you can never tell by the picture.

What is the weather like? Isn't it hot there?

We are doing well. Nekhamka from Fastov visited us. Genya's sister from America, who was here on a visit, will be returning soon. We'll give her your address to come see you.

Rosa Yanova married Solomon Rappoport. The ceremony was held on June 1.

Write us whether you work, if Lyova works. Can a person find a job easily?

Write about everything. Be healthy. Your sister,
Franya Ronen.

We thank Lyova very much for the photo. It was a great pleasure for all of us to see your happy, smiling faces.

I greet all Americans.

My dear Fannie!

After the news of the revolution, I was very surprised. I was not at all prepared for this. I was very surprised and I was very surprised. I was very surprised and I was very surprised.

I was very surprised and I was very surprised. I was very surprised and I was very surprised. I was very surprised and I was very surprised.

I was very surprised and I was very surprised. I was very surprised and I was very surprised. I was very surprised and I was very surprised.
